

SKINNY & FAKE

Tori's time-bomb boobs

→ She might insist that she's naturally skinny but there's nothing natural about Tori Spelling's skin-and-bones physique – or her misshapen fake boobs.

Coming under increasing criticism for her ever-shrinking frame, Tori has been forced to defend herself, exclaiming, "Oh my God, I'm not anorexic." But despite her protests, the former Beverly Hills 90210 star is at least aware that her body is unhealthy – and unattractive. "Obviously, I don't want to lose any more weight," she says.

But her words now ring hollow, with the mum-of-two continuing to shrink. Rumoured to be down to just 44 kilos, practically all that's left of Tori are her wonky, oversized breasts.

Holidaying with husband Dean McDermott and their children – Liam, two, and Stella, one – Tori couldn't hide her alarming body.

Sydney-based plastic surgeon Dr Mark Kohout says Tori's boob job is one of the worst he's seen.

"The implants are too large for her chest and spill over their base," he says. "The fact she's so thin exacerbates the problem – she has very little breast tissue to camouflage the implant."